IDAHO STATE UNIVERSITY VICE PRESIDENT FOR RESEARCH AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Idaho State University (ISU) announces the national search for Vice President for Research and Economic Development (VPRED). The VPRED will work closely with the Provost, college deans, department chairs, and faculty as together they enhance ISU's research profile and portfolio.

Idaho State University educates over 12,000 students with exceptional academic opportunities in more than 250 programs at the main campus in Pocatello, and at locations in Meridian, Idaho Falls and Twin Falls.

The next VPRED will be a collaborative leader who will diversify and build upon a tradition of research strength and productivity in a rapidly growing region of the state. The VPRED is also responsible for identifying and supporting strategic collaborative economic development initiatives with the private and public sectors.

Required Qualifications:

- Earned Ph.D. from a regionally-accredited university
- Academic rank of professor, or equivalent
- Experience developing and managing a successful, externally funded, academic research program
- Administrative experience that includes management of personnel, budgets, operations; e.g., department chair, associate dean or dean, funding agency program officer
- A track record of competitive research funding

More information, including the leadership agenda, preferred qualifications, and the application process can be found in the position profile at: <http://academic-search.com/sites/default/files/ISUVPRED.pdf>
