

Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs

The University of North Carolina Asheville seeks a Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. A full profile for the position will be available around January 22. The new Provost is expected to assume office no later than mid-summer 2019.

One of 17 institutions in the University of North Carolina system, and international headquarters of the Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges (COPLAC), the University seeks a dynamic, innovative, and passionate champion of liberal arts education. UNC Asheville enrolls 3,900 students and offers more than 30 undergraduate majors and a Master of Liberal Arts and Sciences degree. The University is seeking a dynamic, innovative, and passionate champion of liberal arts education who embraces the distinctive role of a public university.

Reporting directly to the new Chancellor, Nancy J. Cable, and serving as a member of her Cabinet and senior leadership team, the Provost is responsible for the strategic vision, direction, and effectiveness of the University's academic programs. The new Provost must possess an earned doctorate, demonstrate academic scholarship, have a record of successful institutional leadership in liberal arts and sciences institutions or related fields, and demonstrate the ability to lead across multiple academic disciplines and departments. The Provost is expected to have a proven record of support for diversity, inclusive excellence, and transparency in decision making; and of promoting innovative approaches to teaching and learning, global education, and shared governance. The successful candidate will be a collaborative leader who acts with integrity and moral courage, possesses the ability to communicate with diverse constituents, and fosters collegiality and clarity in the decision-making process.

When it is ready, the position profile, which will include complete application instructions, will posted on this site. Priority review of applications will begin February 22, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.
